Tigers stung by Hornets, 14-13

BY BRENT MACEY
The Bay Mills football team was hung and stunned by the East Central Hornets Friday night at the Tiger's homecoming game 14-0.

The game was an upset for the Tigers who were plagued with penalties even when the momentum was in their favor.

The Tigers scored four times in the game, three times in the second half. But two of those touchdowns were called back, one for holding and another for clipping.

The Hornets scored twice in the first quarter for their two scores of the game.

East Central's first touchdown game with 6:40 left in the first quarter. The Hornets received a Bay Mills punt

From then on it was a catch and ball game for the Tigers. Neither team posed any serious scoring threat until the close of the half. Bay high took possession of the ball on their own 37 following an unsuccessful fourth down and eight yard attempt by the Hornets.

On second and nine Paluhans went to the air with a screen pass to Walter Ross who broke several tackles up field during a short-lived six yard touchdown run.

The Tigers were called for holding and the ball went back to the Tiger 20. Head Coach Shifty Smith came off the

The referees showed no sympathy. After two more pass attempts and a holding call against the Hornets, the half ended.

The ball changed hands six times in the third quarter before the Tigers gained possession of their own 33 with less than two minutes remaining.

Running back Ronald Carter got three yards and Palmisano picked up the first down move by a quarter-back keeper.

A 15 yard penalty against the Hornets moved the ball to the Hornets 31 yard line and the quarter ended.

Tiger split end Michael Lewis picked up eight yards in the first play of the fourth quarter. Giamanno kept a hell as Wilson and two others returned the left end into the endzone. It was the Tigers first official score of the game. Tiger Van Foyard completed the PAT and the Tigers still trailed 14-7 with 11:17 in the game.

Bay high gained possession again after forcing a Hornets punt and scored for their third time on the identical play that was called back in first half.

This time Ross rated 30 yards into the endzone before the ball was called back for a flipping charge against the Tigers.

The Tigers took over for their third drive with 4:41 remaining in the game.

Ten plays later with 1:20 left

In the game, Palmisano raced around the Hornets left end and romped 21 yards into the Hornet endzone.

With the score 14-13, the Tigers decided to go for the extra point attempt. Carter carried the ball around the left side of the Tiger offense but was tripped up four yards outside the endzone.

An inside kick by the Tigers failed to force a turnover and the Hornets held on to win 14-13.

Smith noted the Tigers played a good ball in the second half and showed 'tremendous poise' on the come back trail.

On the final Tiger drive, the Bay High offense were kept alive on successful fourth and 9 yard pass play from Palmisano to Tiger and Michael Lewis.

On the following kick-off, Bay High took possession on their own 22 yard line. Palmitan rolled left and first and 10, but did the handle on the ball before he could pitch back to a Tiger running back.

Hornet safety Gary Long capitalized on the error by picking up the bouncing ball and racing 21 yards into the endzone for the second Hornet score. Boyd again completed

Mississippi joins national stock brokers registry

Secretary of State Edwin Boyd Pittman announced that Mississippi has become one of 20 states in the nation to join a new program called the Central Registration Depository (CRD).

A computer terminal has been installed at the Secretary of State's office to connect the Securities Division to the Central Registration Depository, a Washington, D.C.-based operation which enables securities firms and agents to register in a single location for doing business in many states.

The system is expected to save the securities industry an estimated 20 to 30 million dollars nationally in reduced regulatory paperwork.

Without CRD, securities dealers have been required to register separately in each state where they anticipated doing business, which for many dealers entailed annual Pittman said the program will provide relief in several ways. For the industry, burdensome regulatory requirements will be simplified. For the state, record keeping will be easier and more efficient, and there will be a central information pool that will help distinguish dealers with records of fraudulent activity in other states.

In Mississippi, the Secretary of State's office regulates the securities industry and has the authority to grant or deny licenses to dealers and agents. States participating in the CRD program retain their full regulatory authority.

Securities dealers operating in participating states will be able to register in the CRD CRD will be the three participating states where they expect to operate. Three states, Illinois, Massachusetts and Michigan, have been taking part in a pilot program involving the CRD. The program is now accepting other states and Mississippi is among the first 20 to link up to the system.

The program was created by two professional associations in the securities field. The North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA) and the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) are managing the system.

Pass fire chief offers wood stove operating tips

The Pass Christian Fire Department reminds residents of the importance of the proper use of wood and coal burning stoves.

The increased number of fires caused by wood and coal burning stoves has prompted the fire chief to offer the following tips for the safe operation of stoves, chimneys and accessories.

George Mixon, Pass fire chief, says:

"To ensure safe operation, a permit must be obtained from the building inspector prior to installation. The stove should be installed strictly in accordance to the manufacturer's instructions."

Mixon notes, inadequate clearance between the stove and combustible materials is the leading cause of stove fires. There should be a 36-inch clearance from the stove unless a heat shield is provided and an 18-inch clearance from the stovepipe," he recommends. "A heat shield must be made of fire resistant material and a proper air space provided between the shield and the wall. Fire resistant material should also be placed between the stove and the wall."

"The fire chief states, the stove pipe should slope upward to the chimney and should not exceed 10 feet in length. The diameter should never be reduced in size."

"If it is necessary to pass through a combustible wall, an approved thimble must be used. This stove pipe should enter the chimney through a fire clay thimble and should not extend into the chimney. The stove pipe should never be used in place of a chimney," he reports.

"Only seasoned, dry hardwood should be used as fuel. Flammable or combustible liquids should not be used under any circumstances, and rubbish should not be burned in stoves. Artificial fireplace logs should not be used in air tight stoves because they burn too hot and tend to liquify."

"Coal should be burned only in stoves designed for its use and only hard (anthracite) coal should be used. Caking coal should not be used in closed stoves because expanding gases could create explosions in the confined spaces," he says.

"Chimneys should be cleaned after every two or three cords of wood have been burned and at least once every year, especially for the air tight stoves which burn wood at a very slow rate. It is also a good idea to burn a hot fire for about fifteen minutes a day to remove some of the creosote which forms on the chimney," Mixon adds.

"The program is now accepting other states and Mississippi is among the first 20 to link up to the system."

Rocks embarrass Tomcats, 31-6

By Randy Ponder

A Pat Leech interception of a Tomcat pass on the Rock goal line stopped the Stone County drive and led to the first of four touchdowns for St. Stanislaus as the Rock-A-Chaws stopped a game losing streak with a solid 31-6 blasting of the Stone County Tomcats in a homecoming contest Friday night in Bay St. Louis.

Following Leech's steal, the Rocks moved easily down field with the offensive line punching huge holes in the Tomcat defense.

Sean Logan capped the 60 yard 15-play march with a 4 yard run up the middle. John Dunham added the PAT as the Rocks broke on top 7-0.

After an exchange of punts Stone County fumbled the football on an attempted handoff. Jerry Kelly recovered for St. Stanislaus and the Rocks had the ball on their own 28.

Aided by a 15-yard penalty against Stone County for having too many players on the field, the Rocks moved down to a first and goal-to-go situation on the Tomcat 1.

A fumble and an offside penalty moved the ball to the wrong direction and the Rocks had to settle for a Dunham fieldgoal of 25 yards.

On the ensuing kick the Rock-A-Chaws caught the Tomcats sleeping as Dunham booted an on sides kick which snapped by rushing across a yard line. The Rocks took the lead 14-0.

A Casey Wittmann pass to Brad Lamber for a gain to the 20. Logan moved the ball to the 40 on 2 running plays to set up first and goal.

Wittmann's pass into the endzone was picked off and returned to the Rock 40, but the Tomcats were offside on the play and the ball came back.

After that near miss, Wittmann elected to give the ball to number 24 and Logan made it into the endzone for his second 4 yard touchdown run of the game. Dunham again was on target with the point after touchdown.

At halftime St. Stanislaus was sitting on a commanding 17-0 advantage.

Four plays into the third quarter the Rock-A-Chaws upped that lead to 24-0.

Logan took the second half kick on his 20 and returned the ball up to the 40.

On the Rocks first play, Stone County was flagged for the second time in the contest for having too many men on the field. The foul moved the ball to the Tomcat 45.

Rock quarterback Wittmann decided to keep the football on 2 consecutive plays and picked up a first down on the 28.

A pass to Pat Kergosien caught the Tomcats off guard as the Rocks scored a quick TD on the 28 yard play. Dunham split the uprights for his third PAT of the game.

Stone County got the ball back and promptly fumbled it away again. This time John Killen made the recovery for the Rocks on the Tomcat 35.

A clip against the Rocks following a 7 yard pickup by Logan cost St. Stanislaus 15 yards.

Three plays netted only 6 yards and St. Stanislaus found themselves in a fourth and 11 logjam.

Instead of trying a fieldgoal, the Rocks elected to go for the first. Wittmann hit Joe Gex at the 23 for the needed yardage. Gex made a good play to catch the ball as he was falling down.

Following a short run by Logan, Wittmann pitched the ball to Gex and Gex passed to Kergosien in the corner of the endzone for the final TD in the Rock point parade. Dunham successfully booted his fourth extra point to round out the scoring for St. Stanislaus.

With a 31 point lead in the fourth quarter, Rock-A-Chaw coach Fred Wegman was able to give some of his second string and younger players some game experience.

The Tomcats overreacted by rushing across a yard line. The Rocks took the lead 14-0.

St. Stanislaus is playing 300 ball for the year with a 3-3 overall record.

Next week the Rock-A-Chaws will entertain East Central in another conference matchup. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Stone County Tomcats were defeated by the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws 31-6 in a homecoming contest Friday night in Bay St. Louis.

St. Stanislaus scored four touchdowns and a fieldgoal while the Tomcats scored one touchdown.

St. Stanislaus quarterback Casey Wittmann completed 12 of 20 passes for 136 yards and 2 touchdowns in the game.

Sean Logan rushed for 135 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Pat Kergosien caught 2 touchdowns, 1 from quarterback Wittmann and the other from Gex.

Dunham kicked a 25 yard fieldgoal and 4 extra points.

Pearl River Central edges Pass Pirates, 14-12

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Pass Christian High School Pirates Friday night were edged 14-12 by the Pearl River Central Blue Devils in a McDonald Stadium football contest.

Bob Lumpkin, Pirate head coach, Saturday said the game's turning point occurred when the Pass offense failed to score after driving within five yards of the goal line.

The Pirate offense lost momentum after the Blue Devil defensive standoff and the Pass defenders were many times overpowered by Pearl River Central's mammoth offensive line—all topping the 200 pound mark.

Pass Christian drives were also checked by three pass interceptions, all snagged by Blue Devil cornerback Chip Johnson, thrown away by quarterback Ira Bradley.

After the Pearl River defensive standoff, the Blue Devils' offensive squad mounted a 20-play, 60-yard rushing drive led by quarterback Jonathan Robertson.

The Blue Devil onslaught resulted in the first score of the game and Robertson kicked the extra point upping the score to 7-0.

In the middle of the second quarter, the Pass offensive squad got rolling and on a quarterback keeper Bradley rambled about 30 yards for the Pirates first score.

Pearl River's offensive squad charged to the Pass Christian three-yard line and Robertson bulled through Pirate defenders to score with 17 seconds left in the first half.

The extra point attempt was good and set the halftime score of 14-6.

Lumpkin noted the Blue Devil defense held the Pirates to only 12 plays in the entire first half.

Neither team scored in third quarter.

Midway in fourth quarter the Pirates were becoming battle weary. Offensive backfield players several times bumped into each other and Bradley threw another interception.

But the Pass defense got tough and within four plays turned the ball back over to the Pirate offense with four minutes and 38 seconds left in the game.

Bradley came back working running plays with split end Greg Porter and Fields.

The Pass Christian quarterback personally brought the Pirates to the two-yard line with several yard-eating passes.

With 35 seconds left in the contest, Fields bulled through the towering Blue Devil defenders to set the game score of 14-12.

The conversion point attempt by Bradley failed.

Pearl River sat on the ball in the remaining seconds of the contest.

Lumpkin observed, "Pearl River did a fine job offensively in the first half, they took the ball and drove."

"When we didn't score in the beginning of the game, we had to play Pearl River's game," he said.

"Pearl River did not surprise us at all in their plays, but we just did not shut them down in the first half," Lumpkin explained.

But the head coach reported he is not at all disappointed with his team's performance against such a powerhouse team.

Lumpkin noted the Pirates have lost three out of seven games this season, but have only allowed the three winning teams a total of six points to win.

Game statistics show Pass Christian earning eight first downs, compared to Pearl River's 13.

Rushing, the Blue Devils gained a whopping 309 yards to Pass Christian's 224.

In passing yards, Robertson only gained 10, while Bradley earned 33.

Robertson only passed once and completed that pass.

Bradley threw eight times, completed only three, and tossed away three interceptions.

The Blue Devils punted four times averaging 30 yards.

Pass Christian did not punt at all.

Both teams each fumbled once and lost ball possession.

Pearl River was penalized four times for 30 yards.

The Pirates were penalized six times for 30 yards.

HARD TO STOP St. Stanislaus running back Sean Logan goes around a would be tackler as he carries for a first down. Logan ripped the Tomcat defense for 135 yards and 2 touchdowns Friday night in a 31-6 spanking of Stone County. (Echo staff photo-Randy Ponder) radiation through their knowledge of how to operate equipment which can

 The instruments are allocated by the state civil defense department to those departments which have received instruction in the course.
 Boudin said one radiation machine is issued for each three course graduates in a department.
 Some 27 machines are available in Hancock County.
 Boudin said the machines were distributed every two years and taken back for calibration. Before they can be distributed again, the departments must again complete the course.
 "All the departments have been certified," Boudin said. "But they will have to be recertified."
 Knowledge of how to operate the equipment is especially vital since radiation cannot be seen, smelled or felt, Clark said.
 "If you can't monitor the rate of radiation in an area then you can't cope with it, and you will be hurt," Clark said.
 Clark said the course also covers radiation emergencies involving transportation accidents, and how to track radiation in the event a nuclear explosion occurred in another state.

MYTHS AND FACTS OF MIDDLE AGE EXPLORED

The Middle Years is a physician's guide to life challenges in middle age.

The book, written by Donald L. Donoghue, MD, FACP, of Corona Del Mar, Calif., is the second in a series produced by the American College of Physicians and The Southern Medical Association. The book is not a simple collection of advice on keeping physically fit after forty; it is a broad exploration of numerous aspects of this transitional period.

Middle Years concludes with an extensive bibliography and a convenient index. Faced with problems of middle age in his personal and professional life, Donoghue provides information on the latest findings in medicine and virtually no random information for the general reader; he began work on The Middle Years.

The resulting blend of current health information, concise explanations of scientific concepts and bits of personal insight provides a thoroughly harmonious and enlightening guide to the challenges of middle age.

Human interest history gathered from senior citizens

By S. GRADY THOMPSON

Conventional history is mostly a record of dates and names and is of course highly important. However, the most important phase of our history, in my opinion, has been largely neglected — how people lived, what they did, what they thought, how they traveled, what distance meant to them.

We know the history of the discovery of America, the wars our forebears fought in, the dates of the organization of this country and of the individual states.

We know the names of the presidents and many other public officials and their records of accomplishment but we know little about the common people who made up the bulk of the population of the country. We know comparatively little about the every day life of our ancestors, or what motivated them. We know little about how they became educated. Educated they surely were for their time and place, of we use the term education in its real sense.

We know little of what the old timers did, but little about their social life, how they managed their businesses.

To show you what I am talking about, a successful business man who lives in New Orleans came into my place of business and told me that he had bought one of my books in which I told of the old days. He was a young fellow, expressed surprise, if not amazement, at another story I published in which I told of an old man telling me more than 50 years ago of living by the side of the old Gulfport to Columbia road, what is now Poyune and of streams, pulling, loaded wagons going north along this road. I told him how he

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Initiation is making many home-bound individuals weary of the cash in their pockets. They are looking for ways to increase their income. Work-at-home jobs may sound appealing, but consumers should first investigate and analyze these job offerings. They could end up spending more than they earn.

A different type of scheme offers cash in exchange for goods produced at home. The individual must buy the materials to make the product, and then mail the finished product to the company. Companies sponsoring this scheme may refuse to buy the finished goods, however, and the person loses the money spent on materials and postage, and the time spent at this "job."

Often, ads which promise large amounts of cash in exchange for a few hours of work at home are schemes devised to get your cash out of your pocket and into theirs. These schemes have become so numerous that the U.S. Postal Service assigns inspectors to investigate this type of fraud. In the last year, complaints about work-at-home schemes have increased 120 percent.

Only one of the common types of home-based schemes is coming to the attention of the consumer. It is called "pyramid" selling. The consumer must sell a product to a friend or family member in order to receive a commission. The product is usually a low-quality item, and the consumer must sell a large number of units to receive a commission. The consumer must also recruit other people to sell the product. This is a classic pyramid scheme, and it is illegal.

The one thing these fraudulent schemes have in common is that they promise large amounts of cash in exchange for a few hours of work at home. They are all designed to get your cash out of your pocket and into theirs.

Every cook needs a collection of "good die stand-by" recipes in her repertoire for those busy "no time to cook" days, as well as for those occasions when unexpected guests appear, or when she issues a spur-of-the-moment invitation to guests lingering over a cocktail.

Here's an easy, tasty standby that's a favorite of mine—using sausage, a meat product that, however, the world around here has enjoyed for centuries. Of course, there are many varieties of sausage, which history tells us, was in use more than 5,000 years ago, and every country has its own special version.

I prefer smoked sausage, spicy and a bit on the "hot" side, but whatever sort you use, this makes a tasty dish—and you can get it to the table even more speedily if you form the habit of keeping cooked rice on hand in refrigerator and freezer ready and waiting for impromptu pairing with sausage, poultry, seafood, ham or whatever, as rich is easily reheated without losing its original texture or nutrients.

Just put the rice into a colander and pour boiling water over, making sure that it drains well. Or, as I often do, saute it a minute or so in a little butter, perhaps, along with leftover green peas and a bit of chopped green onion and celery.

Anyway, here's RICE AND SAUSAGE SKILLET SUPPER. Brown 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of sausage, large or small links as you wish, and drain on paper towels. Pour off excess fat and spread a layer of cooked rice in your skillet, top with two thinly chopped onions to a cup of cooked rice. Mix all together, pour in a one-quarter cup of milk.

Sprinkle with chopped peanuts, then bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for a half hour. Serves four.

Is there any meal as typically Southern as a good old-fashioned Southern country breakfast? And any Southerner worth his grits looks on ham and red-eye gravy with a mountain of hot biscuits for the buttering and dipping as an ideal country breakfast?

The big, big country breakfast dates back to the days of the Old South, largely agricultural and rural, and the hearty meal was necessary to stoke the fires before the outdoor work began, whether on the plantation or small farm or whatever.

Times have changed, but Southerners' fondness for the big breakfast remains. In fact, as you know, the breakfast tradition endures in the hunt breakfast, complete with stirrup cup—the Derby Day Breakfast, with its Mince Juleps—the breakfast after the Carnival balls, and so forth.

Breakfast has always been a favorite meal of mine, and among my favorite and most entertaining is the Sunday brunch after church services, with everyone in a relaxed mood and in no hurry to go anywhere.

But even on ordinary days, we always have ham and grits or oatmeal or egg dishes, and often biscuits or such to start the day—and if you think we're pigging, just remember the old adage that for healthy take you should eat breakfast like a king, lunch like a prince and supper like a pauper.

While I don't agree that ham and grits call for red-eye gravy (a gravy made by pouring strong black coffee into the ham juices and "burnings" left in the skillet), there's disagreement as to whether the red-eye should be poured over the grits or the biscuits or both.

I like the biscuits drenched with "daddy" with a little strawberry preserves on the side, mingling with the gravy. Delicious! For the finest red-eye, you really need country ham, but a slice of other ham can easily suffice. So here's one of those simple, but oh so good, Southern country gems.

Here's Southern Ham with Red-Eye Gravy. First, of course, prepare the grits according to the package directions. If you're lucky enough to have country ham on hand, you'll want to slice it about half an inch or perhaps a little less, and be sure to cut it into the fat so that the ham will curl up. If you've no country ham, substitute an equally thick slice of other ham.

Look slowly in a heavy skillet, turning as needed a few times, and cook until browned. Add a little water, and let ham simmer a few minutes. Remove the ham and keep warm. Add a fourth cup of strong black coffee to the skillet, and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes.

TIMBERLINE

By Frank Riedman
Huntsville, Ala. (AP) —

With the season for wildfire upon us, the Mississippi Forestry Commission is urging woodland owners in the state to begin making preparations to protect their valuable timber from the destructive enemy.

Mississippi's wildfire season traditionally begins each fall and continues until about mid-April.

It was during this period last year that well over 300,000 acres of timberland in the state were destroyed by fire.

In only minutes a wildfire can destroy years of timber growth and unfold profits for a landowner.

Protection against wildfire is essential for successful, profitable timber management, and it is relatively simple and inexpensive to provide.

The best and cheapest insurance against wildfire is a fire line. A line six feet or wider, made of brush and usually is sufficient to secure the area from fire, and it can be constructed by simply plowing a line of brush.

Existing fire lines should be plowed or reworked every year to clean away debris and brush that collects in them. Anything collected in a fire line that will serve as fuel will make the line ineffective.

Fire line construction is a service the Mississippi Forestry Commission makes available to local landowners for a minimal fee. Landowners needing this service should contact the County Forester's office or the local lookout tower. The phone numbers are: 67-974 (office).

For more information on fire line construction, contact the There's an Answer!

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Nobody seems to care.

Q: I have a problem in knowing how to accept the apathy of people toward world hunger. They are pro-life yet don't give a dime to help the needy. Don't we kill a life when we allow a child to die from starvation? In my small church circle they seem so indifferent. This bothers me so deeply I'm considering not attending the meetings yet this is my home and these are the people I must live with. How can I help change the attitude?

A: If you allow yourself to get disturbed by what other people do or don't do you will be pretty miserable.

Just do what you think is right, and don't get annoyed with people because they don't do what you do.

Don't talk a lot, don't criticize or condemn others. Do what you think is right, and don't get annoyed with people because they don't do what you do.

We are sending you our booklet "Enthusiasm which may be helpful to you. Anyone willing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Pulpit Points

BY DR. D.S. WALKER

"FOLLOW ME," called the follower of Christ, with a genuine sense of dedication. To become like Jesus is the real aim in life.

Those who accepted this challenge to follow Jesus were called Christians, and to this day are known as such. Acts 11:26 says, "The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch."

One becomes a Christian by first being born again. An unsaved person cannot be a Christian. The believing child of God grows to the extent and in such manner that he or she becomes more like Jesus—kind, patient, courageous, pure, selfless, faithful, and righteous.

To become a better Christian we must search the scriptures. Jesus said, "They (the scriptures) are they which testify of me" (John 5:39-40).

Again the Master said, "Take my yoke upon you and learn of me." Matt. 23:2. To be a Christian is to KNOW CHRIST AND FOLLOW HIM.

It is evident that many who claim to be Christians are not. It is equally evident that they do not understand what it means to be a Christian from a Biblical point of view. Christianity is not merely
